that seems likely to spring out of it. Mr. Den-nis—or, rather, the writer of the article that ap-pears over his signature—professes great surprise that the "sensitive young gentleman" should think his card reflected in any way upon the Ferry Company. Now, Mr. Dennis, I put the question to you: what meant such sentences as these—I quote your own words? "No arrangement can be made with the Ferry Company to run a fifteen-minute line," &c.; "this irregularity, growing out of circumstances over which we have no control, is the sole producer of the annoyance to the up-patrons," &c; "if any one can see how

The Wine Crop.—Mr. R. Buchannan, of Cincinnati, in a letter to the St. Louis Horticultural Society, says the vintage of 1859 near Cincinnati will be the largest since 1853. The average yield will be about 400 gallons to the acre, aithough some vineyards will produce from 600 to 800 gallons to the acre. Within twenty miles around Cincinnati it is estimated the crop will amount to 800,000 gallons; so that the wine crop of Ohio the present year may be safely estimated at over one million of dollars in value.

Campaign.-The theater, that standard place of amusement which never is found wanting, reopens on Monday night for the season. As has been announced, it will be controlled by Mr. John Lorton, then whom we know no one better itted for the position. He has been long with as, and understands the taste of the patrons of the frama in Louisville. He will give us entertainments in a style which will recall the palmy days of the drama. The company has been selected with great care, and is, as a whole, superior to any in the West.

Mr. Marcus Elmore is the leading man. He played here in 1857-8, and established a fine reputation. He would be an accession to any theater on the continent. Mr. Lorton will play old men parts, and we want none tother for that line .-Sam. Ryan, who is to be the low comedian, it is said, can be a little funnier than anybody else .-We will know better, however, when we have a aste of his quality. Claude Hamilton, a correct ctor, plays the juvenile business and light come-Mr. Metkiff, who is new to us, is the heavy man. He comes with commendation from other cities. R. C. Grierson, for eccentric old men parts, is an excellent actor. Then, for other earts, there are Lytton, Watson, Goodin, Walace, Sherry, Forbes, Valentine, Williams, Peters, ewis, &c. The prompter and dramatic director s Mr. R. J. Jones, a very efficient man, and in is speciality, "a most learned Theban."

Mrs. Kate Denin Ryan, the leading juvenile ady, is not only personally pleasing, but an ctress of a high order of talent. Mrs. Julia ones, for chambermaid, comedy, &c., is one of the sauciest, dashiest, most mirth-provoking pieces extant. She will charm the habitues of the heater. Mrs. Elmore, who is engaged for leadng old woman, is said to be a superior actress .-There are also Mrs. Grierson, Mrs. Lorton, who generally plays her parts well, and is always graceful, Misses Hammon, Kate Connor, McDonld, Wilson, Hart, &c.

The bill for Monday night is Love's Sacrifice, in which Miss E. Mitchell, the first star of the season, will be introduced, as well as the strength of the 'Somebody Else," in which Mrs. Jones and Sam.

'Crawfish," a thief and a vagabond, was lately etter from the Superintendent, dated August 30th, on which might damage John's reputation any lace but here. In this city it is past damaging Here is the letter : "John Harris, who was brought to the asylum us a short time before daylight on last Saturday morning. During his stay here—four weeks—I noticed nothing in his conduct and manners indiating lunacy or any other form of insanity, but much to show his skill in dissimulation, burglary, &c. I know nothing of his previous history and general course of conduct in your city; but the ittle I have seen of him constrains me to think that probably the State prison is a more suitable do I know, nor can I even conjecture, with any satisfactory certainty, that he has gone, or will go back to Louisville. But, as it is our duty to use due diligence to re-capture and bring him back to the asylum, I write respectfully to request you to inform the detectives and watchmen of the city, and request them to look out for Harris; and should PISTOL GALLERY .- The pistol gallery, No. 90 Fourth street, is in full blast. The proprietor will teach young men how to shoot, a most desirable accomplishment in a city where the click of the pistol is often heard. conspicuous at our principal hotels. There was an alarm of fire yesterday morning, about 1 o'clock, caused by a bed catching on hre in Butchertown. One of the engines repaired the spot, but its services were not required.

It will be seen by the advertisement in nother column, that Rev. Geo. W. Smilev's select school will re-open on Monday next. Mr. Smiley is an excellent teacher, and his school is one of the very best in the city.

THE CLARKE COUNTY FAIR .- We learn that the Clarke County Fair, at Winchester, was a grand exhibition. The horses were finer, the cattle fatter, the attendance larger, and the women prettier, and more of them, than was ever before ongregated at a Fair in that county. A Louisville packer paid $400 for a fine riding horse for

MR. WHIPPLE'S CLASSES .- Mr. Whipple, the sucessful and well known teacher of music and drawing, will resume his classes with the fall session of our colleges and schools. He has become identified with Louisville Professors, and is so popular that our recommendation is hardly necessary. His time will be fully occupied when it is know that he is ready to organize his classes.

COWHIDED .- P. Ulmer, a Cincinnati hatter, was cowhided yesterday by F. Fisher, in Phillips' beer house, on Third street, near Market. Ulmer sometime since wrote an insulting letter to Fisher, who said at the time he would cowhide him if they ever met. Meeting yesterday in the beer house, Fisher applied the rawhide to Ulmer's back, fast and quick, until the latter fled to escape the man of wrath. He took refuge on the mail boat, and returned to Cincinnati. From what we could hear of the case, Fisher was justifiable in taking cowhide vengeance.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY .- Wolfe & Durringer, ealers in watches, clocks and jewelry, have taken the building, corner of Fifth and Market streets, which they have fitted up especially for their business. They manufacture their own jewelry, which is equal in style to that of Eastern manufacture, and far more durable. Watches of American, English and Swiss manufacture, can be obtained at prices according to quality and taste of the purchaser. This firm guarantees all articles as represented. They are clever and deserving men, and should be patronized.

Rowdyism .- Last night, about 11 o'clock, Wm. Reader, a coal boatman, who was intoxicated, ran out of the White Mansion, corner of Third and Market streets, pursued by two men, one of whom pursuers soon caught him, got him down in the street, and were stamping and kicking him, when the vigilant Bob Seay and his part ner, Jas. Martz, arrived at the scene of the fight. One of them turned his attention to Seay, and struck him. The officer returned it promptly and with interest, and his adversary caved. The other didn't resist the arrest, and the two were marched off to the watchhouse. The shooter was one of two brothers, Casper or George Deer. Shortly after this a young man who was under the influence of liquor, went into the St. Charles per cent., and the man drew his knife and made hostile demonstration. Policeman Bell being on hand, grabbed him, and conducted him to jail.

AURORA AUSTRALIS .- On Thursday night last the counterpart of Sunday night's magnificent Borealis appeared over the Southern horizon .-For some three hours, commencing about midnight, the whole heavens were lighted up in the most brilliant manner. KENTUCKY HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

This anniversary show, as has already been an nounced in our columns, opened in the large hall of the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening, the 1st instant. It continued yesterday and last night, and will close with a general sale of flowers, fruits and vegetables, at 10 o'clock this morn-

Flowering plants, cut flowers, and floral designs, are numerous in the exhibition, and many of them of great beauty. The private collection of Jehn P. Morton, Esq., was exhibited by Wm. Galetly, his excellent gardener; and the premium of $30 was equally divided between that and the fine collection of Moret & Brother of the Woodland Garden dist Church, Third street, between Walnut and Messrs. Moore & Serb's collection, which is numerous, fills a large space on the platforms, and contains many beautiful plants and flowers .-The exhibition of roses in pots, by Messrs. Wilson, Nantz, and Heaver, and Mrs. J. O. Ross. is very handsome. Table and hand bouquets are numerous upon the tables, and exceedingly beautiful. Mr. Heaver's exhibition of cut flowers fills most acceptably what would otherwise be an empty niche. There were but three competitors for the premium offered for the best "Floral Design," and in only one of them, and that unsuccessful, is much design apparent. This is a tasty nossed column, gracefully twined with verbanas, peliotrope, ferns, phloxes, amaranth, jessamine, mignonetta, honey suckle, clematis, &c., above which sits the rose, in regal beauty, crowned Queen of Flowers." This has its myth-tells its story-and, according to our unsophisticated no tion, ought to have had the premium.

LECOMPTON, K. T., August 27, 1859.

Editors Louisville Courier: As the political, financial and land affairs of Kansas continue to attract the attention of the public, and as the present is by no means the least important times in the history of Kansas, I address you a short communication which I hope the numerous readers of your paper will find interesting.

Kansas, as usual, has framed a new Constitution for a State Government, which is termed the Aansas, as usual, has framed a new Constitu-tion for a State Government, which is termed the Wyandotte Constitution, which, with the Topeka, Lecompton and Leavenworth Constitution, makes the fourth one which has been framed for the State of Kanasa. This Constitution is to be sub-mitted to a vote of the people on the 4th day of October payt and if accepted by the people and October next, and if acce by Congress, then to be the Constitution of the State. This may be strictly called a Republican Constitution, as it was framed as such. There is considerable opposition to its adoption, and among the number of the opposition press are those of the most important Republican papers in Kansas; and if it is adopted by the people the majority will be small. The main objection to it seems to be the boundary question, as its boundary excludes the western portion known as the "Pike's Peak country," and if Pike's Peak should prove to be something real it will be quite a loss to Kansas. I send you a copy of a Constitution.

The Republicans claim the Territory, sant at your charges, and I but breathed the sentiment and feeling of the entire owners of the ferry right in what I said. So, Mr. Dennis, I invite your writer, whoever he may be, to "treat my communication" as it seems best; and, sir, if you suppose your professed "good feeling" toward us is reciprocated—since your charge upon us—you are "grossly deceived." We are upder no obligations to you and set no fewerest. but it is my opinion that Johnston will be elect-ed. The chief objection to Parrott is that he has not done anything in Congress, which should be a very serious charge to bring against a delegate representing a Territory where there is so much to be done, and in Judge Johnston, Kansas will find one worthy, able, and willing to represent

The writer of the card signed Jas. H. Dennis again proposed to me to run a "fifteen minute" line. He knew while he was writing it that it was impossible for us to do so, and with more insolence than benevolence, offers to "furnish us with the additional coal required to do it."—

By making ten minute trips, as we make twenty minute trips, there would be a car to leave the speculation in property as there has been in other States and Territories. There has continued to be a speculation of about twenty-five per cent. on between each boat, thereby securing to the New Albany travel close up connections, and only a letention of ten minutes at the terminus to half lands in Kansas, and at this time it is improving the down travel, and at the same time give to the Portland steamboat and way travel a car every tern States, the depreciation has been quite heavy tern States, the depreciation has been quite heavy, and far from any advance. The lands in Kansas have been open for pre-emption since the spring of 1857, and a large portion of our lands have been pre-empted. There has been seven land sales advertised to take place here during this summer, the boundary of which includes the best portion of Kansas. The first sale took place in this district and this place on July 18th, and closed on the 30th. About 230,000 acres of land was offered at public sale, about 6000 acres of which was sold, and principally at $1.25 cents per acre. On My complaints against the drivers are not the ef-I do not censure the drivers directly, but their employers. They are given to understand if from any cause they get into difficulty, they are to fight their own battle, hence, for fear of being arraigned before a Police Court for an assault or a misdemeanor, they make no effort to "hush up" any drunken or vulgar loafer that may be annoying the other passengers. How many of both searches are searches as they were searches they were searches as they were searches as they were searches as they were searches they were searches as they were searches sold, and principally at $1,25 cents per acre. On the first day of August the office opened for pri-vate entry, which was the first time any land has been subject to private entry in Kansas, and since that time 72,000 acres of this land has been entered with land warrants. This was a fine opening for those that had warrants to locate and ing the other passengers. How many of both sexes will testify to this fact.

My objections to the "money receivers" are, that this mode of collecting consumes time that is valuable to the business man—that strangers are imposed on by them, often depositing more than the fare, and having no redress—and if a bill is to be changed, the change is returned in five and ten cent pieces, which you have to take, or get off the cars. Many might be the "indict-mate" brought against them. They were the

This land was principally in Franklin, Coffey, Anderson, Lykins and Lynn counties, the bounfive and ten cent pieces, which you have to take, or get off the cars. Many might be the "indictments" brought against them. They were the cause of two of your drivers being thrown into jail and confined atl night because ten cents was missing that could not be accounted for. Another poor unfortunate was arrested and held to bail for $400, because forty cents was missing from his receiver. In the cause tent and the cause tent to take, and there will be about 350,000 acres of land that will not be about 350,000 acres of land that will not be about 350,000 acres of land that will not be about 350,000 acres of land that will not land to the land that will not land the land to be about 350,000 acres of land that will not land the land that land the land the land that land the land that land the land the land that land the land the land that land the land that land the land that land the land that land the land the land that land the land the land that land the land that land the land that land the land that land the land the land the land that land the la for $400, because forty cents was missing from that will not be sold, which will be subject to lohis receiver. And further, I can say, should parties desire, they will locate their warrants and insure a profit of twenty-five per cent. Matthew Hale Smith, correspondent of the Boston Journal, relates the following New York in-

A little incident took place in New 1 ork a short time since that I will put in this place. We have a noted gentleman in New York, whom I will call T. He is a member of one of the New York clubs. Opposite to him was another person, who one evening sported an elegant diamend ring. It dazzled T. He wanted it, but the owner seemed the care little to park with it. Vialding at last to dazzled T. He wanted it, but the owner seemed to care little to part with it. Yielding at last to the importunity of T., the ring was sold for the sum of $600. It passed to T. amid the titterings and suppressed mirth of the crowd, which did not escape the quick ear of T. He knew that both the ring and the purchaser were sold. T. said nothing. The next day he called upon a jeweler, and learned that the ring was paste and was worth about $25. He called for some real diamonds, and among them found one not unlike his ring of paste. T. made a bargain with the jeweler for the see of the real diamond. He pledged $1,200, the paste. T. made a bargain with the jewice for the use of the real diamond. He pledged $1,200, the price of the diamond. He gave $100 for its use for a time. He had the paste removed from the setting, and the real diamond put in its stead. Thus armed he appeared among his associates at night, flourished his ring, and seemed to be in the total the associatement of his chums, who night, flourished his ring, and seemed to be in high glee, to the astonishment of his chums, who believed he had been sold.

But the advantage was with T. He talked about "fool and his money," &c.—said that if any gentleman present had a $1,200 ring that he wished to sell for $600, T. knew where a purchaser could be found. Bets were freely proposed, that the diamond was not real. They were accepted. One man bet $1,000; so did another; and two bet $500 each, and all were taken by T. Umpires were chosen, the money and the ring put into their hands, the test applied, and all said the stone was a diamond of the first water, and was worth not less than $1,200. T. quietly put the $3,000 in his found five miles away, was in a famished condi-tion, and ravenously devoured some bread which her discoverers happened to have in their possession. Bordering the house of her parents is a spring or brook where the family washing is generally done. Whilst the mother was at the generally done. Whilst the mother was at the washing, the little one, aged about three and a half years, was playing about the bushes with a child somewhat older. As the bushes are quite thick and the country back mountainous and altogether uninhabited, it proved impossible to find the lost child, and she would undoubtedly have perished, but for her accidental discovery by a farmer and his man, who were going over the mountain to cut a little plot of grass, when they hands, the test applied, and an said the stone was a diamond of the first water, and was worth not less than $1,200. T. quietly put the $3,000 in his pocket and went his way. He carried the diamond back, recalled his $1,200, paid for the use of the stone, and with the paste ring in his hand, went back to the club at night. The man who had sold the ring was at the club, waiting, for he wanted to regain the ring. He had sold it for fun. He knew all the time it was a real diamond. He never had any false jewels. He could tell a real diamond at any time, by its peculiar light.—He would not do so mean a thing as to cheat his old, dear friend, T. And he knew that T. would let him have the ring back. But T. was stubborn; said that the seller was a cheat, and now that he saw the value of the ring, wouldn't undo what he had done. At length T. agreed to restore the ring on the payment of $300, which was joyfully paid. But the matter came out, and all parties came to the conclusion that when "diamond is to cut diamond" some more pliable, and one less sharp than T., will be selected for the operation. how far she may have trave ed in her wanderings to get that distance away, cannot be told. She must have gone over rocky places where she was in constant danger of tumbling over precipices, and where rattlesnakes are so thick as to keep men and boys in fear from their proximity. She had also forced her way through briars, over swamps and through thick scrub districts, where only hunters penetrate; for the country thereabouts is the wildest and most impenetrable. She was so young as to be without fear, but had suffered terribly from hunger and from the pains of her lacerated limbs — Putterson (N. J.) Guardian.

SATURDAY, .... SEPTEMBER 3, 1859. Reading Matter on Every Page.

Gov. Magoffin's Inaugural. We publish this morning the elaborate address of Gov. Magoffin, delivered at Frankfort, on the occasion of his inauguration on Tuesday last. The address was carefully written, and doubtlessly intended to be a full exposition of the views of Mr. Magoffin on the subject of slavery in the Ter-Whilst agreeing in the main with the tenor of

Mr. Magoffin's remarks, we would with frankness say that we differ from him in one or two of his positions. In the first place, truth and justice require us to say we do not consider that the Opposition originated or are responsible for the agitation of the question of Congressional interven. tion to protect slavery in the Territories. The discussion of this question, which had slept since 1854, was re-opened by Mr. Douglas last year at Freeport, and subsequently in February last in the United States Senate. If this subject has been precipitated upon us unnecessarily and without cause, it has been done alone by the Demo-It is true, however, that the Opposition party in this State assumed a bold and decided ground in favor of Congressional protection, but it was very distinctly and clearly understood that Mr. Beli and Mr. Magoffin occupied, on that question, virtually the same position; at least such was the understanding of the mass of the Democratic If, as Gov. Magoffin holds, the protection to slave property is already sufficient, and, if the courts possess the power to fully protect it, then we agree with him that no further protection is necessary. We certainly agree with him that the only power Congress possesses over the subject of slavery is the power coupled with the duty of guarding and protecting the owners in their rights, and we further agree with him in the declaration that the power to protect does not carry with it the power to destroy property. We hold also, with Gov. Magoffin, that slavery exists in the Territories under the Constitution of the United States. So far so good; and if the Democracy of the nation were united on these ideas would be all right. But we are told by Judge Douglas and his followers that every argument used by Gov. Magoffin is an assumption. That slavery does not exist in the Territories under the Federal Constitution: that the jurisdiction of the courts are determined by the enactments of the Territorial Legislature, and that slavery is a purely local institution, dependent on local laws for its existence and protection, and that the people of a Territory, immediately after their oganization, have the right to decide for themselves whether they will or will not have slavery. "It matters not," says Judge Douglas, "what the courts may decide, the people will or will not have slavery, just as they please.

Here, then, is an assumption on the part either of Gov. Magoffin or Judge Douglas. One or the other is wrong. If Gov. Magoffin is right, that the Constitution recognizes slavery in the Territories, then even Judge Douglas concedes that slavery should be protected by Congress in the event of the failure of a Territorial Legislature to pass protective laws

We believe that on this vital question Gov. Magoffin is orthodox. Throughout the State, on every stump, he boldly denounced Judge Douglas' heresy of squatter-sovereignty. He has always been slavery question, we are well assured from his antecedents that he will ever prove true to the Constitutional rights of the South.

If Gov. Magoffin is right in his position, that the rights of the slaveholders are amply protected in the Territories, we fully agree with him that any agitation of the slavery question is unwise. But, if not, then we are in favor, not of agitation, but of the complete recognition and enforcement

The Inaugural of Gov. Magoffin indicates that he differs widely, certainly as widely as we do, from Judge Douglas, and whilst he recognizes the doctrine of "non-intervention," it is "non-inter vention" based mainly on the idea that the rights of the South are amply protected in the Territories. This, taken in connection with the fact that he uniformly throughout the recent canvass denounced squatter sovereignty, should be satisfactory to the Democracy of the State. We must confess we have not the hopeful anticipations of Gov. Magoffin in regard to the action of the inhabitants of the Territories. We think that very soon they will attempt to pass laws excluding slavery. They would have done so already in Kansas if they hadn't known that the Democratic Governors would have vetoed their laws. Several new Territories will probably be organized during the next session of Congress. The vast region of country west of Kansas will soon demand Territorial Governments, and in all these territories this slavery battle must be fought. It is the part of statesmen to meet these issues boldly, and let them be at once decided. It is utterly impossible to put an end to the agitation of slavery until the North ceases its aggressions upon the rights of the South. The slave question will be agitated, and it is folly to attempt to stave it off. We may attempt to make new issues, but the slavery question is the only issue of importance now before the country. We may as well make up our minds to meet it. Meet it at Charleston, and then meet it at the polls in November, 1860. Let the South demand its constitutional rights—nothing more—nothing less, and when these rights are secured, then, and not till then, will there be amity existing between the different sections of the Union.

Gov. Magoffin's Position.

The Douglas papers, before the Kentucky elec tion, claimed Mr. Magoffin as being a supporter tion, claimed Mr. Magoffin as being a supporter of Judge Douglas. We combatted this statement, at the time, and declared that so far from being in the time, and declared that so far from being in favor of Douglas, that Gov. Magoffin had denounc ed him and his squatter sovereignty on every stump in the State.

We are glad to see that outside of the State the press is beginning to recognize the correctness of our statements, and are placing Gov. Magoffin on a correct platform. The Cincinnati Commercial regards his inaugural as decidedly anti-Douglas, and thinks that it embodies not only the views of Gov. Magoffin, but also those of Vice President Breckinridge; and further holds that such a platform, adopted at Charleston, would drive Judge Douglas from the National Convention. In order that our readers may see how the inaugural of Governor Magoffin is received abroad, we subjoin an article from the Cincinnati Commercial, in regard to it, and would remark that the surmises of the Commercial, are, in our opinion, virtually

During the days of its zeal for Senator Doug-las for the succession, the Enquirer was greatly delighted with the attitude of the Kentucky Democracy, and professed to consider the Demo-cratic doctrine paramount in the old Common-wealth. When it was known that Magoffin was elected Governor, the Enquirer, in behalf of Mr. Douglas, was grateful for the triumph. We pub-lished the important portion of Governor Magoflished the important portion of Governor Magofin's inaugural address, on Wednesday, and the Louisville Democrat of the same day contained the document in full. We examined the Enquirer the document in full. We examined the Enquirer of yesterday, with some curiosity, expecting to be entertained by a parallel drawn by a friendly hand between the Magazine paper, "by Stephen A. Douglas," and the inaugural of the new Democratic Governor of Kentucky, but we found in the Enquirer simply the valuable information that the inaugural occupied about three columns of a newspaper. The fact is, the position of the Governor of Kentucky, as ansunaved in his inaugural, is hostile in the expensed in his inaugural, is hostile in the expensed in his inaugural, is hostile in the expensed. THE SHELBY COUNTY FAIR.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Courier ] SHELBYVILLE, September, 1859. Rditors Louisville Courier: Another day's show of splendid blooded stock has delighted the citizens of Shelby, and made this, the first annual exhibition of her Agricultural Association, as complete a success as the most ardent of its friends could wish. Older and more experienced judges than myself concur in saying that one of the right of this morning was the best and to the control of the right of this morning was the best and to the the rings of this morning was the best, and to the lover of blooded racing stock, one of the most in-teresting ever brought within the circle of an amphitheater. The ring admitted as contestants for the premium of a silver goblet, aged stallions, and at the call there was admitted some of the best stock of which Kentucky has ever had occasion to boast. Milo, one of "Grey Eagle's" first colts, now seventeen years old, was entered by C. S. Moore, of Shelby. He is a magnificent stallion of "Grey Eagle's" build and color, and no doubt of equal sprit. He is not, I believe, famous as a racer, but is well known as a getter of very fine colts. He was awarded the premium, a decision which did not please Moore helf as well decision which did not please Moore half as well as it did the immense audience. There were two splendid "Highlander" stallions, one of whom took the premium in the sweepstakes ring at Lou-isville in 1856. The same animal took the cer-tificate at this fair. The Highlander stock is fine thicate at this fair. The Highlander stock is noe blood for all general utility purposes, and is eminently fitted for farms and country use. A Drennon nag was entered, distinguishable by the flowing mane and splendid appearance in harness, which distinguishes his sire and his get. Stallions of Lafayette, Giencoe, and Quicksilver's deacent were also in the same ring, and being thus almost entirely composed of well known Kentucky blooded there there was a vast deal of excitement greated.

stock, there was a vast deal of excitement created.
In other and not less excititing contests, "Morgan," Murdock," "Wagner" and other famous blooded animals, were favorably represented.—Chas. Dorsey, of Jefferson, had a magnificent harness aged "Morgan" mare. Wm. McMakin, of Nelson, entered a "Murdock" three year old stallion, second dam by "Hamiltonian," which received a premium over another magnificent "Murdock" owned by Jas. P. Minor, of Nelson. In the dock" owned by Jas. P. Minor, of Nelson. In the two year old ring a "Murdock" was given the pre-mium over a "Gray Eagle," which decision was not met so favorably as the owner could have wished. The past generations have transmitted the story of "Gray Eagle" and her contests, until their children have learned to be so proud of the animal as to cherish and admire her yet. Among the mares there was also noticeable the several famous animals-"Morgan. 'Highlander," "Monsieur Tonson," and "Lafayette." In a sweepstake ring, for stallions, Moore's "Milo" ' was entered, and again received the prenium; the second prize being awarded to a nag belonging to Jas. P. Myers, of Shelby. Elias Dorsey, of Jefferson, has secured several ribbons, and among the principal are those for "aged harness stallions," "aged harness mares," and "three year old harness stallions."

There have occurred but few incidents to while away the time-this has been like all fairs, only it been one of the best. As I wrote you there was but one entry to the ladies riding ring, and that by a beautiful young lady, of Spencer. But this "first and only appearance" has created quite a sensation, especial by pleasant and comfortable to the tender heart of a distinguished pork merchant, of Louisville, who boasts of being as good a judge of pretty women as he is of fat hogs. Though a few years will crown his dignity with a diadem of snowy locks, his eyes (and heart) have not lost their qualities of judging and admiring beau

He is commended to the mercy, &c., &c. Yours,

MADELINE SMITH .- A correspondent of the Stamford Herald states that a gentleman who has just returned from abroad throws some light upon the death of L'Angelier, for the alleged murder of whom, it will be recollected, Miss Madeline Smith was put upon trial. It says:

About fifteen or eighteen months before L'Angelier's death, this gentleman attended a chemistry class along with him, sat next to him in the class, was accustomed to walk home with him after it was dismissed, and was thus on somewhat inti-mate terms with him. One day in the class, L'Augelier was searching for something in his locket, and not being able to find it readily, he urned out the whole contents on the seat, and among other things, a small paper parcel tied with a string. The string had got loose, and one end of the paper had opened a little, so that part of the contents, a whitish like powder, fell upon the seat. The young gentleman having asked L'Angelier what powder it was, the latter said it was arsenic, and that he had been in the habit of carrying some of it in his pocket ever since he left Jersey. On his companion expressing his surprise that he carried poison in his pocket, and inquir-ing what use he made of it, L'Angelier replied, could (or I would) use it it anything troubled a true, loyal and devoted friend of the South, and although he may deprecate the agitation of the slavery question, we are well assured from his orted-and it is a curious table, too. We find the uber of rags imported during the year ending June 30th, 1857, was 44,582,080 pounds, valued at $1,448,125. Of this number of pounds of rags, Tuscany sent as the greatest number—18,907,207 pounds; the two Sicilies the next greatest number pounds; the two Sichies the next greatest number—6,153,180 pounds; England the third greatest number—5,055,345 pounds; Egypt the fourth largest number—3,821,055 pounds; Austria next—2,726,081 pounds; Turkey in Asia nearly as many as Austria; Sardinia ever a million and a half pounds; while China only sent us 600 pounds. How IT HAPPENED .-- A recently married young man in Cincinnati got intoxicated at a wine party, and in that state went home to his wife. As soo as he appeared, she leaped from the sofa, on which she had been half reclining, and throwing her alabaster arms about his neck, inquired "Are you ill, dearest? What ails you? You do not seem to be yourself." "Well, the fa-fa-truth is that that that I went to sit-sit up with a sisi-sick brother, belonging to our-our lodge, you see, my love, and the li-light went out, and giving him brandy, as -as the doctor had preprescribed, I-I must have ma-made a mistake-a mistake in the da-dark, and taken the liquor myself; whi-which I should-should-ha-have hand-handed my friend-von see, my dear." The explanation was very satisfactory, especially to the husband, who sat down on his hat and fell asleep, while endeavoring to show how natural the mistake was, and how impossible it was to avoid

A NEW DODGE-LOOK OUT FOR THE MONKEY. There is a suspicious looking individual, a "urriner," going around town carrying a string, to the end of which is attached a dirty, thieving little monkey. Wherever this individual spies a bedroom or parlor window open, he stops and listens, and if he is satisfied that there is no one presen in the rooms, he sends Mr. Monkey creeping slyly up the front of the house into the open window. Now the man-monkey on the side-walk, having hold of the other end of the string is strongly sus-pected of having communicated his own thieving it under the circumstances.

PENDLETON COUNTY .- After the ceremonies PENDLETON COUNTY.—After the ceremonies of inauguration were over on Tuesday, Messrs. Coleman and Roberts, in behalf of the Democracy of Pendleton county, presented Gov. Magoffia an elegant rocking-chair made of hickory withes, the native production of their county. Speeches and other ceremonials were observed in the presentation and we regret that we were not present in

A WORD TO THE WISE .- The people are aware that D. O'Hare, No. 427 Main street, is the oldest, largest, and most experienced manufacturer of trunks and similar articles in the city. They should avail themselves of the rare opportunities afforded by Mr. O'Hare. To the country and city merchants he offers peculiar advantages in his wholesale department, while in the retail line he cannot be equalled. Whoever wants to travel, whether with a small carpet bag or a mammoth trunk, need go no further than the great Western factory of Mr. O'Hare. His manufactory is a credit to Louisville, and should meet with extensive patronage. As a matter of home pride, and to subserve economy, purchasers will consult their best interest in purchasing of Mr. D. O'Hare. Remember, that the United States Prize Medal was awarded to D. O'Hare for the best trunks made.

LEUCORRHOBA.OR WHITES .- This weakening disease is one of the most obstinate in resisting ordinary medical treatment, simply because it is regarded too much as a local affection. By attacking the constitutional cause, by improving the general tone and vigor of the system, the Pu RUVIAN SYRUP is of itself able to remove speedily this exhausting form of female disease. THE GREAT VITAL REGENERATOR,

Mr. Magoffin was introduced to the people by

Gov. Morehead, who said : The Board of Examiners have canvassed the returns made to the office of Secretary of State of the late election, and finding that you have received a majority of the votes cast, have declared you duly elected Governor of this Commonwealth, and I now present to you their certificate to that effect. In retiring from the office which I have filled for the past four years, I may be permitted to express my ardent wish that your administrawhatever may be its line of policy, may advance the happiness and prosperity of our com

With my kindest wishes for your individual health and happiness, allow me to present you to your constituents here assembled. Fellow-citizens, I introduce to you the Hon. Ber ah Magoffin, the Governor elect of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Gov. Magoffin then arose, and in in a clear, distinct voice, read the following address, which was received with much applause:

Ladies and Fellow-Citizens: In entering upon the discharge of the high trust to which you have called me, I beg leave to return you the warmest thanks of a sincere and grateful heart. Most highly appreciating the dis-tinguished honor you have been pleased to bestow upon me, and deeply impressed with the importance of the grave and responsible duties growing out of that position, I invoke the Great Ruler of the Universe for that wisdom, moderation, and

Born, educated, raised in the center of the State, there is no spot on earth so green to me as the soil of Kentucky. She has many wiser, but no truer or more loyal son than I am—none more devoted to her welfare, or to whom her people are dearer. For the first time within the last twenty-five years the freemen of Kentucky have decided at the polls upon an entire change of officers in the administrative policy of our State Govern-ment. Emulating the example of our predeces-sors in all that is good and avoiding it in all that is evil, may we not hope, when we behold the ready, dutiful, and even graceful, though it may be somewhat reluctant obedience of the minority who have so long held power, to that decision that such a system of policy, based upon sound principles, may be inaugurated as will produce good will between the opposing parties, and result in greater benefits to the people? That decision is a triumphant vindication of the admintration of President Buchanan from the charges of fraud and corruption, and of the principles and policy advocated by the Democratic party of Kentucky. The ready acquiescence of the Oppo-sition—the peaceful, prompt, and cheerful obe-dience of those who have so widely differed with us, is a sublime illustration of the quiet and har-monious though peaceful workings of our beau-tiful republican system of government.

Upon the question of slavery, which has constituted so prominent an issue in the late exciting canvass, the Democratic party fully indorsed the doctrine of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the Dred Scott decision. In the language of that decision they hold that "the right of property in slaves is distinctly and expressly ned in the Constitution," and that "the only power over it conferred by Congress is the power, apled with the duty, of guarding and protectthe owners in their rights.' The power to protect does not carry along with it the corelative power to impair or destroy. The Territories are erty of the States, and all have an equal right to go there with their property, and be pro-tected in its enjoyment. The people who emigrate there have the right to, and will determine for emselves whether they will or will not have slavery, when they have framed a constit proposed to Congress to come into the chica a severeign State; but they have no right to do so while in a territorial condition. The Democratic party is pledged to resist all attempts at a sed to Congress to come into the Union as renewal, in Congress or out of it, of the agutation of the slavery question, under whatever shape or color the attempt may be made. The grand old party has never changed its name, its purposes, or its principles, nor i as it ever broken its pledges.
The party in Kentucky will stand by them now; it will keep the faith, and continue to be true to its promises and to its friends in every section of the country; it will stand by its nationality, and now that the Union is in danger, it will adhere

Since the late election our position cannot be misunderstood. The people of Kentucky have spoken decisively at the polls, after full discusof "non-interference by Congress with the question of slavery in the States and Territories."

The Democratic party (under the lead of Mr. Clay, if you choose,) had succeeded in removing this dangerous question, in 1850, from Congress to the Territorial Legislature, thence, if need be, to the Courts. It was a satisfactory settlement to all but the Freesoil party, which struggled, as if for life, to keep it in Congress, where they claimed to have fail power over the whole question, and had announced their intention to exclude slavery from the Territories as soon as they had majority. The settlement of the question in Compromise measures was ratified by both the National Conventions which met in 1852; and when it came up again in the introduction of the Kansas Nebraska bill in 1854, it was again adopted-removed from Congress-localized upon the same principle, and that unjust and odious retriction, the Missouri Compromise, repealed.

The South—the whole country—breathed freer nore firmly to its policy, and cling more closely to the principles which have given expansion, greatness, and glory to the republic, and which

after the second victory over the Republicans, who again made the most desperate struggle to keep up its agitation in Congress, and thus arraying one section of the Union against the other completely sectionalize parties and get the power into their own hands. Again was the position taken by the Democratic party, and advocated and voted for by almost the entire South, indorsed by the conventions in 1856, which nominated Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Fillmore, and opposed more Buchanan and Mr. Fillmore, and opposed more bitterly than ever by the Republicans. There was no difference of opinion in Kentucky. The Opposition Governor, their prominent politicians, their orators on the stump, backed by the press and the people, were understood to occupy a similar position to ours. It was in their speeches, their newspapers, their resolutions in convention and finally the resolutions passed by them in the Kentucky Legislature, where they had a minority. It was the Old Line Whig, the Know Nothing position, the position of all parties, and fully em-bodied in the Opposition address adopted at the convention which nominated my worthy competitor on the 22d of February last.

I must confess that I was not a little surprised I must confess that I was not a little surprised when I saw the position that the agitation of the question should be left out of Congress, and that the existing laws upon the subject must be adhered to as a final and complete settlement, and without cause abandoned. No one in the Territoies had complained of any lack of protection by Nothing had occurred to show the inade quacy of the laws, or that the courts were poweriess to protect slave property in the Territories; and yet, in order to distract, divide, and utterly ruin the only national party in existence, the posi-tion of our opponents was suddenly abandoned and the question dragged into the issues without any grievance having been made known. That pur-pose has been thwarted. There never was a time when that glorious old party, whose mission it is to build up and save the Union, with all its timely and noble accessions of strength from the galant and patriotic Old-Line Whigs, was more deeply impressed with the importance of being thoroughly reunited. The Democratic party is a unit upon all the essential practical principles and questions it has ever advocated. The people have so decided at the polls by an overwhelming majority; and now that the battle is over and the excitement passed away, may we not hope that the Opposition will cease the discussion of this dangerous, exciting, and impracticable question? Surely no good to the slave States or to the country can grow out of it, but incalculable evil. If the Republican party ever can succeed, it must be from the agitation of this sectional question in Congress. Instead, then, of fancying evils which may never happer—instead of non-action or unfriendly or unconstitutional legislation, which may never occur, and, if it ioes, may, and we believe it will, find an adequate remedy in the existing laws, the Constitu-tion, and the Courts; instead of supposing that the Territorial legislatures will proceed contrary to all justice, experience, precedent, custom, and reason to disregard totally their uniform practice and all social and constitutional right and duty in their refusal to pass or in enacting such laws— had we not better wait until they act or refuse to act? "Sufficient for the day is the evil thereof" is a very old and a very wise maxim. Have the rights of anybody yet been violated? Has any Territory yet passed laws detrimental to slave property? Has Kansas, with an overwhelming anti-slavery majority, done it, even under all the ignorance, bloodshed, and excitement which has prevailed there upon the subject? Has any such disposition been manifested on the part of New Maying passed a strong Has not New Mexico passed a strong agreed upon, and go to the courts instead of Congress? Has anything occurred to cause you to distrust that great tribunal which has given you the Dred Scott decision? It is the duty, and has ever been the pleasure, of those great men, justly renowned for their purity and patriotism, for their independence and industry, for their learning and wisdom, to study and to understand the constitution and the laws do not afford adequate protection, and that they can give no relief? When the necessity of the case arises, will it not be time enough then to go to Congress and make your solemn and imperative demand? Would it not be better to pursue this course than form imaginary ills which may never be realized—fly to those we know not of?

The Democratic party, and all parties in the South, have ever been auxious to have the questions of our noble old Commonwealth for the next four south have ever been auxious to have the questions.

DAILY COURIER, the other great interests of the country will be neglected, and parties will become sectionalized neglected, and parties will become sectionalized. It will produce nothing but discord and a severance of all those fraternal ties that bind us together as a nation, and will finally dissolve the

> Brought together by a common sense of danger, should we not take up a common position of self-preservation? Planting ourselves upon the great inciple that this government was framed to protect the weak against the strong -standing firmly and side by side upon the broad ground that it has the power, and that it is its duty in all the departments—Executive, Legislative and Judicial > —to protect us in the full enjoyment of our negro > property as well as all other kinds of property guaranteed to us by the Constitution; whenever it fails to do that, it fails in the great purpose for which it was created. In that event, having made our demand and afforded full time for reflection having made an appeal in vain to the justice, the reason, and the patriotism of a reckless, sectional, fanatical majority at the ballot box, we have but one course to pursue in discharging our duties to ourselves and our children.

> When we can no longer live as equals in this government, when we can no longer obtain our rights, guaranteed to us by the Constitution, as the worthy sons of the illustrious patriots of the revolution, we have but one other desperate resort, but one other dreadful hope, and in that hope is involved the dissolution of the Union. Other slave States, away off in the South, may take ul tra grounds and talk lightly of the breaking up of this glorious Republic, politicians and presses there may advocate the re-opening of the African slave trade, and upon pretexts, great or small, may appeal to prejudices or to reason in order to prepare the mind for a Southern Republic, but we are differently situated. We have a different position in the sisterhood justice in their fulfillment, which will insure the peace, prosperity and happiness of the people. May His guidance and protection be vouchsafed to us, and may His choicest blessing fall upon trade. She is stubbornly opposed to the intro-duction of any such test of political orthodoxy, and she will give no countenance whatever, at this ime, come from whatever quarter it may, to any movement that looks to a dissolution of this Union. With seven hundred miles of territory bor dering on free States, we must think more calmly and act with more discretion. For, in the event of a separation of these States, then, indeed, would her towering mountains and peaceful val leys, now glowing in all their verdure and beauty, be the scene of conflicts horrible to contemplate.— Then, indeed, would she be baptized in blood and fire, with the significant title first won by our ho-roic fathers of "the dark and bloody ground." God grantit may never be realized. God grant God grant it may never be realized. God grant the day may never come when this glorious sister-hood of States, now so free, so prosperous, and so happy—now resting upon each other's confidence, and still strengthened by the dearest ties of friendship, cemented by the blood of the revolution, consecrated by all the associations of the past, and hallowed by all the sacred memories that could blind a people together will be ries that could bind a people together, will be broken in fragments. No! The position of Ken-tucky, ever loyal, ever true to the Union, is to avoid the ultraism of the South and the treason and fanaticism of the North. Firm in her high, conservative position, avoiding all extremes, true to her friends, she will take no position that wil drive from the Democratic party the free States, which have so nobly stood by us in all the struggles of the past. If I know her people, she will take no position that will sectionalize the only national party now in existence that can and will protect her as an equal in the Government. She knows her duty, and let what will happen, she will cultivate peace, charity, and good will towards her sisters of the Republic. In her true spirit of justice, she will respect the rights of others and demand her own, submitting to nothing wrong. She will stand by the compact as our fathers made it, in all its compromises, yielding what is right, and expecting as an equal sovereign State to have meted out to her the justice she would render to others. Upon these principles only can our institutions be preserved, and our blessed Union continue to grow in all that can elevate, adorn, and make a free, great and happy people.

Entertaining from childhood the liveliest interest in the success of the Democratic party; having a deep, active, and abiding faith in the truth of its principles; believing in a plain and economical administration of your State as well as national government, without ostentation, I shall endeavor government, without oscentation, I shall endeavor to adopt such a policy as will insure the most rigid scrutiny into and watchfulness over all the departments of your government; to carry out such retrenchments in our expenditures as may be needed, and all such reforms as may be required for the best interests of the people; to develop all the resources of the State; your physical and intellectual; your natural and artificial; your mineral and agricultural, mining, manufacturing mechanical, commercial, and farming interests; to give free scope and full action to all the energies, capital, and skill of the people; to adopt, in a word, such measures as will promote morality, stimulate to the highest degree the industry of the people, comprehend all your varied interests, and vont vest resources shall be my cor stant aim. The fundamental law, your new constitution, must be the basis of such a policy. To that paper, which embodies the great Democratic that paper, which embodies the great Democratic principle that the people are honest and capable, and the safest depository of power, I give my cordial support. Under the old constitution, family relationships and influences and partisan services were the chief claims upon the Executive to office. The people had no voice in the se lection of their agents, and when bad appoint-ments were made there was no adequate remedy. First in importance is your Common School system. Upon the success of this system, in my judgment, depends, in a great measure, your character as a State and the prosperity and happiness of the people. Public virtue, based upon the intelligence of the people, is a vital principle of lib-erty. No effort should be wanting to preserve, to promote, and to keep it pure and healthy. Teach them the nature of vice, if you would have them avoid it. Teach them the beauty of virtue, if you would have them love it. Educate your children then. You cannot have wholesome laws or have them properly executed unless you have a sound morality, founded upon the intelligence of the Our system of common Schools, where the rich and poor assemble together upon terms of equality, are taught in the same classes by a common teacher, who teaches them the same great lessons of common nationality, impresses upon them the nature, blessings and value of our institutions, and the necessity of becoming useful themselves, to transmit them unimpaired to their children. Regarding these schools as the nurserics of genius. of virtue, and of patriotism; believing them to be the rock of our safety, I shall do all in my power to carry out the system to the highest degree of Next in importance probably is the payment of your public debt. No people who are so prompt to vindicate their own rights, so brave in battle, so true in friendship, so just and so exact in meeting their private engagements, would ever meeting their private engagements, would ever have the slightest taint of suspicion upon their public credit. Without a shadow upon the fair fame of Kentucky, occupying an enviable position at home and abroad, her bonds eargerly sought after in the markets everywhere, her credit high as that of any State in the Union, is a subject of just pride to her citizens. To keep unimpaired that credit, to husband and so manage the resources of the Sinking Fund as to pay promptly the interest as it falls due upon your promptly the interest as it falls due upon public debt, and eventually the principal, shall be ny constant aim.

Your currency, too, deserves a passing notice. To have a safe, uniform, and at all times convertible currency into gold and silver, is a matter of the highest importance. No labor can have its just reward, and property no fixed value, when the value of your circulating medium is liable to change. In the management of the banking system, the interests of the stockholders will alway nderate over the interests of the people. preponderate over the interests of the people.— The lender will exact too much of the borrower. In times of prosperity expansions will take place, stimulating prices and encouraging extravagance, which will sooner or later end in bankruptcy and ruin. In times of adversity, produced by the banks themselves, corresponding contractions are resorted to, no relief is afforded at the time it is most needed, heavier burdens are imposed upon the industry of the borrower, when he is in dis-tress, and less able to bear them, until he finally sinks under the weight of obligations he is unabli to discharge. To guard against these contractions and expan sions, by which prices are constantly elevated or depressed, to hold the banks to the most rigid responsibility, and, above all, to make no use of them, is, in my judgment, of the highest impor-ance to the welfare of the State.

In conclusion, I shall bear in mind the remark of an old and very distinguished man, that it is easier to obtain than to keep power. If I know my own heart, I shall endeavor to be the Governor, not only of that party that elevated me to office, but of the whole people of Kentucky. Observing moderation in all things, viewing questions upon which it may become my duty to act in their practical results, avoiding all extremes, regarding the Union of the States as the rock of our safety, and the only hope of mankind, I shall cling to it more closely, now that it is in danger.

Fully appreciating the patriotism and the public services of my distinguished predecessors, who have won from you and from the whole country, so much fame in the discharge of their duties, no one could be more deeply impressed with the solemn responsibilities of the high position to which you have called me. Exhorting you to habits of temperance, economy and industry; to a cultivation of a sound morality, and to a strict observance of the lew Loule set that for strict observance of the law, I only ask that for-bearance in judging of my conduct, which may be consistent with impartiality and justice. Differing as I do, in political principles with your able, dignified, accomplished, and very dis-tinguished Chief Magistrate, who is just retiring their independence and industry, for their learning and wisdom, to study and to understand the constitution and laws, and under them to define and guard your rights. Will you be safer to take back your grievances to Congress, with a majority against you, than to appeal to that great sheet anchor of safety to our rights? Reiying upon the strong arm, and appealing to the impartiality, the justice, and the firmness of the supreme Court, had we not better wait until it has given its decision—when it decides that the constitution and the laws do not afford adequate protection, and that they can give no relief? When the necessity of the case arises, will it not be time enough then to go to Congress and make

NEW ORLEANS AND MOBILE IRON STEAMER .- Mr Samuel Sneeder, of Greenport, New York, has nearly completed an iron steamer, called the Alabama, built for Capt. The New York Sun has the following particulars: She is two hundred and twenty-five feet long, thirty-wo feet beam, and ten feet hold. The hull is enti-ely two feet beam, and ten feet hold. The hull is entilely of iron, and the deck and upper works of wood. The keel is of iron, five-eightlas of an inch thick; the frame is of angle iron three and a half inches square; the floor twelve inches deep on every frame. GREAT INDUCEMENT.

The Democratic party, and all parties in the South, have ever been auxious to have the question removed from Congress, and now, that you have succeeded in removing it to the Territories, and the courts, would it be prudent to violate the agreement you have made yourselves, and remove it from a place of safety back to Congress? By taking it there you cannot get the protection you demand. The time which ought to be devoted to other business will be consumed. Millions of your mobile old Commonwealth for the next four years — feeling the necessity of, and constantly invoking that Divine assistance and direction, without which we must go astray, I shall endeavor to deserve, if I do not obtain, at the expiration of my administration, that plaudit always sought, but hard to win—that welcome plaudit—well done, thou good and faithful servant.

Thanking you again, and praying for the blessing of God upon you all, I am now ready to take the oath of office prescribed by the Constitution.

OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER, FRIDAY EVENING, September 2. The stock of Pork at New York, as reported to-day, shows a heavy consumption during the months of August, say 20,000 bbls against 9,000 bbls the corres ponding month last year. The stocks on the 1st of September for three years, compare as follows:

.29 274 There will, even with a continued lively consumption for the next two months, be Pork enough in the country, on the 1st of November, to prevent any wild speculative movement in hogs. The report from New York regarding Flour states that the actual supply, but considering the feeling that pre-

the stock is only 122,500 bbls. This is probably below vails in the West regarding the movement of the crops, would not be a heavy steck, particularly as wheat is scarce in the seaboard markets. The heavy receipts of wheat at Chicago within the last few days, alarmed dealers in New York; but it must be remembered that those supplies were only large when contrasted with previous short weeks.

Money matters are not materially changed, though Money appears to be more in demand than heretofore, and consequently scarcer. The Bank rates on time bills are as follows:

Unless there is an absolute necessity for the animal to be used, he should, in all cases, be allowed a few days rest, that the wound may heal and bea few days rest, that the wound may hear and de-come somewhat hard; even then, until the hair has fairly grown out, the greatest care must be used to see that the chaing of the harness is entirely ob-viated, as when the skin is in the least sore, it is peculiarly susceptible to irritation. When a gall is fresh and bleeding, nothing will so soon dry it and cause it to cicatrise, as a little dry table salt

After the wound is in a measure healed, if it be absolutely necessary to use the horse, a careful examination of the harness or saddle should be made, and padding should be taken out, or parts of the leather removed, to prevent any part of it from touching the wound. To prevent friction, when caused by the saddle or collar, there is nothing so useful as a piece of raw sheep-skin, worn with the lesh side next to the horse. In riding long jour

If the chafing is caused by loose straps striking and rubbing against the skin, they should be cov-ered with sheep skin, having its woolly side turned leather, gunpowder and lard should be occasionally rubbed on the gall to prevent the growth of white Sit fasts, and their treatment, are thus described by Stonehenge:

"Sit-fast is merely a name for an obstinate and callous galled sore, which has repeatedly been rubbed by the saddle, and has become leathery, and disinclined to heal. If time can be allowed, there is nothing like a small quantity of blistering ointment rubbed on, or the application of a small piece of a fused potassa; or even the nitrate of silver in aubstance, or blue-stone; all of will produce a new action in the part, and if fol-lowed by rest from the saddle will generally effect

FLESH WOUNDS .- The following, on the treatent of ordinary flesh wounds, is from Dadd's Modern Horse Doctor:
"Incised wounds are those inflicted by sharp in struments. On the human body they often heal without any subsequent inflammation beyond what nature sets up in the restorative process; but the difficulty with the horse is that we cannot always keep the parts in contact, and therefore it is not so easy to unite them. * * * * * If the wound is seen immediately after infliction, and there seems to be the least probability of healing by first intention, we place a twitch on the horse's nose, and examine the part. If there be and neither dirt nor foreign body of any kind, the blood had better not be washed off; for this is the best healing material in the world. The edges are then to be brought together by interrupt ed sutures, taking care not to include the hair be-tween the edges of the wound, for that would ef-fectually prevent union. Nothing more is needed are the animal so that he cannot get at it. If he is to be kept in the stable, without exercise for any length of time, he had better be put on half diet."

Contused wounds are generally occasioned by nooks, or some blunt body connected with the harness or vehicle. They generally leave a gaping wound with bruised edges. We have only pairing injuries of this kind—of filling up the parts and covering them with new skid; all we have to do, is to attend to the general health of the aninal, and keep the wound in a healthy condition Our usual application is the compound tincture of myrrh. If the part assume an unhealthy aspect, a charcoal poultice will rectify that. If such cannot be applied, owing to the situation of the wound, dress it with pyroligaeus acid.—Herbert's Hints to Horsekeepers.

useful method for securing the rapid growth of young vegetables, and also of making annuals throw out their finest blooms, is to use liquid manure, but how to obtain that is a question with a good many, yet nothing can be more simple. First procure a common flour barrel that is tight; bore a few holes in the bottom; set it on a piece of board that has a few grooves made in it with jack knife, or any other instrument that will make them; let the grooves all conduct to one main channel. Set the board and the barrel on two pieces of fire wood, that will make them lean a little from the perpendicular to the front.—
When the barrel is thus set, put into it a few bandfuls of straw; then get some stable manure, wood ashes, and a little lime, and fill the barrel with the soap suds and dish-water of the house. The leach will very soon begin to run, when a vessel or tub, which may be made by sawing a flour berrel in two, should be set under it and kept there as a vat to supply the manure. Plants moistened with this liquid every other day will soon show its effects.

Mr. Albert Stacy, in a paper on the cultivation of flowers, read before the Concord Farmers' Club of Massachusetts, recommends the following, which he says he has found very efficacious, whi is also well adapted for vines and trees, and the recipe of which he obtained from Mr. Bull, the originator of the famous Concord Grape; put a wheelbarrow load of wheat into a half hogshead, fill with water, and add two pounds of potash to the mixture. Water the plants once a day with

SORGHO AS A FORAGE PLANT .- The Marquis d Vibrave communicates to the Journal of Practi-cal Agriculture his experience in feeding sorgho

On a farm which I occupy myself, twenty-five horned cattle have been fed exclusively on sorgho, during a month; and from the precise day on which it was introduced in feeding the cattle, the journal of the farm shows a dimunition of the profits of the dairy by one-half, and the same decrease was exhibited every month of feeding with sorgho. On the other hand, there was, in respect to one of the cows, a case of wind, that caused its death. Any other kind of food might have produced a similar accirent; but what many of my neighbors have asserted is, the sterility of the cows fed on sorgho. If these two isota—aterity on the one hand, and a dimunition of half in the production of milk on the other—are repeated regularly in consequence of feeding the cows on sorghous many conclude from them, that this From Portsmouth.

IODINE IN POLL EVIL, FISTULA, &c .- Iodine is the most powerful remedy known to medical men, for reducing enlargements, by promoting absorption of the accumulated mass. It is always the reliance of the accumulated mass. It is always the reliance in goitre, or enlarged neck in the human subject, and is the only remedy known that will cure this disease. When fistula or poll evil makes its appearance, procure at the druggists half an ounce of iodine, at a cost of fifty to sixty-two cents, and dissolve it in about six ounces best alcohol, keeping the mixture closely corked. Apply this to the swollen part once a day, and enough blistering plaster below the swelling, on the shoulder or neck as the case may be, to cover a surface the size of a tea sancer, once daily, till the face the size of a tea sancer, once daily, till the surface is well blistered. Keep this discharging by occasional fresh applications of the plaster to the same surface. If the iodine is speedily and regularly applied, and a sufficient surface on each side kept constantly discharging, poll evil or fistula may be cured without the formation of an absence of the surface on each side kept constantly discharging. scess—always hard to cure, and very liable to deform the horse. In the case of fistula, rest from work is necessary. This is desirable in both diseases—as also abstinence from corn, or other heating food. This is very important to the readers of the Farmer.—Ohio Farmer.

LADIES' RIDING.—Among the many mistakes the lady riders of the present day make, there is one more deserving of especial comment, and that is in regard to dress. A great many ladies merely put on a long skirt over their usual underclothes. Now a lady cannot, by any possibility, acquire either a secure or a graceful seat with so many skirts, and the lighter the habit, the more likely is she to acquire a comfortable, easy and graceful seat. The best riding habit a lady can wear, and which is rapidly coming in favor with our American horsewomen, is simply the skirt about a foot longer than the ordinary walking dress, as light as it can be made, the jacket close fitting, the sleeves rather full at the shoulder and elbow, and rather tight around the wrist. Under the skirt she should have a neat fitting pantaloon, coming put on a long skirt over their usual underclothes. Heavy rains have fallen in this vicinity, since our last issue. The corn is growing finely and will yield nearly a full crop. The rains have had a fine effect on the grass, and the fields are now as verdant as in the menth of May.—Paris

all Billious Complaints.

It is a well known fact that the different fevers and billious complaints are caused by the poisonous miasma and exhalations from the surface of the earth, which are taken into the system by respiration. To neutralise this subtle poison and counteract his effect upon the system, is therefore what we have to aim at, and with this view the "French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture" has been prepared.

The high reputation which this medicine has gained within so short a time in the South and West where it has been introduced, is a sufficient proof for its superiority above all other compounds of the same kind.

As an antidote to malaria, this medicine sfands unvivalled; and as it is purely vegetable, it can be a sly given to children and delicate patients, not only increase of fever, but in all cases where a good tonic is regaired.

The French Tropical Fever and Ague Mixture is prepared by its. LaPLACE, Chemist and Drugg'st, New Orleans, and sold by all respectable druggists thrugh out this city.
